

It is my opinion that the property would achieve a weekly rental return between $510 - $530 per week.

This rental appraisal is based on comparisons with similar properties and takes into account current vacancies and trends in today's rental market. Prospective buyers should be aware that the rental value of this property may fluctuate in accordance with changes in supply and demand in the market.

With respect to the rental range provided, the lower rental figure would likely appeal to a greater portion of the market and thus allow the property to be rented out quicker. Alternatively, the higher rental figure is designed to test the market and may take longer to achieve.

This rental valuation has been provided to assist you making a sound decision based on your own personal circumstances and financial situation.

Yours sincerely,
@Realty
