Here's a great opportunity to buy a property with the scope to turn it into a very comfortable home and enjoy the sensational views of the River Derwent.

"There's loads of potential in this property", said Steve Richardson, the property representative selling the property.

"There's solid floorboards just begging to be polished and it's ready to be opened up to create an indoor/outdoor living space that makes the most of the views and sunshine", he said.

The property is located on a quiet street in an established area of Bridgewater. It's close to the local shopping centre and services and just a few minutes drive to the heart of Glenorchy. There's playgrounds, walkways and bikepaths near the river's edge. And, it's at the gateway to the beautiful Derwent Valley with its parks, wineries and orchards.

"This region is thriving," said Steve Richardson.

"The local industrial and transport hub has created investment and employment, which has led to more people looking to move into the area. I think this is a smart buy now and into the future," he said.

The property is available for inspection by appointment, or come along to one of the advertised Open Homes. For more details get in touch with Steve.
