100 YEARS OF LOVE

For a period of over 100 years these walls have cocooned growing families and growing memories.

Living in a house built long ago means looking at charming architectural details, relishing in rich historical stories and celebrating hand made building materials.

Fall in love with the balance of the homes original character while also heading towards the modern avenue.

Vintage Features sing, like the individual crafted corning in each room, the sun shining through the burgundy kosciuszko circular glass and the picture rails still with original brass hooks ready to hang your family portraits.

The grand fig tree throws a shadow of the large yard where you can tuck under her branches for a summer picnic. The extra fenced yard out the back can be a wonderful space for the pooch or to park that vintage kingswood.

Live simply, explore locally from this central classic.
