

SOLD

MUCKED AROUND BACK ON MARKET. BUILDING BLOCK NEAR ARMIDALE.

Hillgrove is located 32 km east of Armidale and 542 km north of Sydney via the Newcastle Freeway and New England Highway. It is 6 km south of the Grafton Road which runs from Armidale to Dorrigo and is 1000 m above sea level.

What happens to a mining town when the mines close down? In the case of Hillgrove, which at its height had a population of 3,500, the buildings were sold and transported to other towns in the district where they were needed. In theory Hillgrove is an old gold and antimony mining town on the edge of Hillgrove Gorge in the Northern Tablelands.

In practice it is a town of a few people and a few buildings so it is not a ghost town but rather a town which has contracted from a population of thousands to less than one hundred. When gold mining closed down in 1921 nearly all the buildings were dismantled and moved to Armidale and other centres.

This block is Zoned RU5 Village .
 You can build on block if over 1000m2 in size and this block is 1012m2.
 Flat block surrounded by farm like property .
 Not a flood zone.
 Theres nothing quite as spectacular as a rural sunset its mother natures handiwork at her finest.
 Now, its your chance to experience these natural wonders first hand.
 Away from the hustle and bustle, yet only a short drive to Armidale
 Contact Mark Killian 0427027372 @REALTY with any questions.

0 BED | 0 BATH | 0 CAR

PRICE:
$35,000

OPEN FOR INSPECTION:
N/A

Mark Killian
0427027372
 killian@atrealty.com.au
 Killian Property