PRIVATE RETREAT WITH ENDLESS VIEWS

Located on an unnamed road just below Flinders Peak, this property shows what the Scenic Rim is all about. Behind and beside you are the spectacular volcanic remnants of Flinders Peak and Ivory Rock. In front of you is the lush valley that is the centre of the Rim, with its fertile grazing and rural lands. In between is this property, offering a combination of grazing pasture, cleared campsites, and natural bushland, all fed by creeks that capture the rainfall from the Rim, together with a natural spring that originates on the property.

The property's features include several cleared campsites, a dam, and a high rocky outcrop that provides views to rival the outlook from Flinders Peak itself. The original accommodation building used by the owners for the past 40 years has been recently removed, but there are several locations that would be suitable to site replacement buildings.

What this property offers is unique. It is one of the few remaining privately held properties in an area that has been bought up for conservation purposes, but as part a former grazing property it is not inaccessible virgin bushland. It will be up to the next owner to decide how to balance the use between pasture, recreation and nature, in a completely private setting.

Whatever you choose to do, you will not be disturbed, and will not be subject to the restrictions that come with living in population centres.

This could be your private escape, with the freedom to do what you please, within 45 minutes of Brisbane city. Call Patti for a private inspection.
