A HOME THAT FEELS LIKE THE LIFE YOU'VE BEEN TRYING TO GET TO

There's a moment when you stop looking at houses and start imagining a life. Not the perfect life.

Just a calmer one. An easier one. A home where everything finally has its place... and so do you. Stop looking now because you have found something special and commands your attention. It's the kind of home you walk into and immediately picture real life happening... not staged life. Morning chaos in the kitchen. Kids playing in the yard. Quiet coffee on the deck before anyone else wakes up. The simple stuff you don't realize you've been missing until it's right in front of you.

The home is modern, but it doesn't feel cold. It feels lived in already... in the best way. High ceilings lift everything, letting light and air move freely through the space. There's room to breathe here. Room to think.

The kitchen is the heart of it all... big, open, and designed for life in motion. Lunchboxes on the bench, dinner conversations that linger too long, people always gathering where the food is. And when you need the mess hidden? The butler's pantry quietly takes care of it all. You could stage your own party or become that star chef all in your own home. Worried about the washing woes? The laundry off the butler's pantry is ideal for the busy person that needs everything.

The living /dining area is open and plenty of room for the Sunday dinners or to entertain guest who just drop in. The kids will also enjoy being around and playing while Mum and Dad are busy.

From here, the home doesn't stop at the back door... it continues.

A timber-wrapped deck stretches out like an invitation. Not just to entertain... but to slow down as well. Coffee in the morning sun. Bare feet in the afternoon. That feeling of not needing to rush anywhere and the friends over for the BBQ and watching the footy while you are cooking in the well-appointed cooking area.

Then there's the pool beside the BBQ area, where long summer days and relaxed weekends come with beautiful views of the ranges.
