There's something particularly appealing about a home that gives you plenty of space outside while keeping everyday living comfortable and connected. Set on 695sqm of freehold land, 111 Cheyne Road combines an easy single-level layout, a substantial backyard and outdoor living with a green outlook.

Inside, the open-plan living and dining area creates a comfortable central space for everyday life. There's room to gather around the table or settle in for the evening, while the kitchen remains connected to it all.

The home opens onto a large deck stretching across the rear, with plenty of room for outdoor dining, a barbecue and seating. It's a natural extension of the living space when friends and family are over, with established greenery providing a pleasant backdrop.

The backyard is where the 695sqm section really comes into its own. There's plenty of lawn for children and pets, while established trees give the outdoor spaces a settled feel. For those who enjoy gardening, outdoor projects or simply having room around them, there's plenty here to work with.
